This Friday 18th at The Quad.

A British story of dissent, drawn from the frontlines of climate resistance. Through the experiences of those who stood in defiance, it traces the quiet unraveling of our protest rights. The film challenges audiences to question what makes dissent effective and where the line of acceptability is.

Director Liz Smith will join us at the screening for a post-film Q+A.

Warning: this film contains a sequence of flashing lights which might affect customers who are susceptible to photosensitive epilepsy.
